

The Impact Now Collaborative is a national quality improvement initiative to maximize the viral suppression rates by targeting those Ryan White HIV/AIDS Program (RWHAP) recipients and subrecipients that have the highest potential for a measurable national impact. The 18-month collaborative enrolls up to 30 RWHAP providers to raise their viral suppression rates to the national viral suppression mean and beyond. In doing so, the Impact Now Collaborative could account for 1 in 3 newly suppressed RWHAP clients. This collaborative is managed by the Center for Quality Improvement & Innovation (CQII) and is supported by the HRSA HIV/AIDS Bureau.

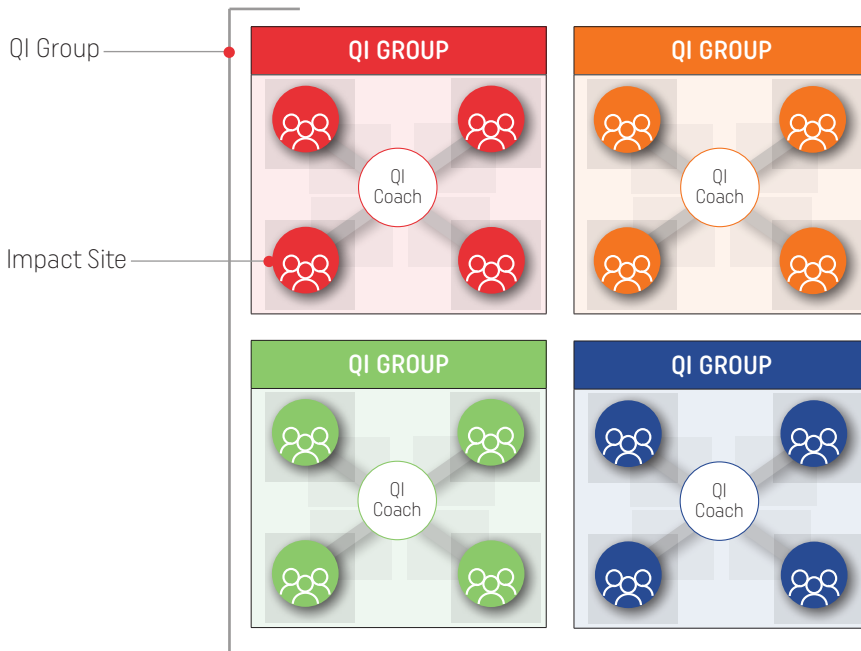

EXPECTATIONS OF PARTICIPANTS:

- Join virtual QI Group Sessions (2x per month, 60 min each) with expert QI Coaches
- Implement a QI project to increase the number of HIV patients who become virally suppressed
- Share your intervention updates with CQII during Reflection Sessions (every other month)
- Submit viral suppression data every other month
- Participate in nine Learning Sessions every other month and present case presentations at each meeting

BENEFITS TO PARTICIPANTS:

- Improve viral suppression rates locally to national mean
- Align with HIV/AIDS Bureau clinical quality management expectations
- Access to nationally recognized content experts and other high performers
- Routine access to real-time benchmarking data of other HIV providers
- Access to evidence-informed interventions to improve viral suppression
- Strengthen partnerships with other HIV providers and HIV communities
- Increase quality improvement capacity of HIV providers and people with HIV
